PASTIME THEATRE

Selig—Biograph—Pathe

RAFFLES CAUGHT—Pathe
A masterpiece of realism. A magnificent portrayal of one of the cleverest plays ever depicted in motion pictures. The story of a gentleman burglar who is caught by the police through his inability to resist the appeal of a pair of beautiful eyes. The strongest theme ever flashed on the screen.
TRAILING THE COUNTERFEITER—Biograph
A comedy in which the two famous Biograph Sherlocks solve a mystery with most laughable results.

OUTGENERATED—Selig
A side splitting, mirth provoking tale of the briny deep. The picture is very amusing and shows many pretty ocean scenes.

JOSH'S SUICIDE—Biograph
A comedy in which many attractive New York scenes are shown.

MANY ATTENDING THE INSTITUTE

Lectures and Entertainments Draw Large Crowds to Brua Chapel. Governor Glenn Delights his Audience.

Well attended sessions mark this year's teachers' institute and Brua Chapel has large audiences morning, afternoon and evening of every day. The lecturers of the week have been giving the teachers much that is practical and at the same time their addresses have been sufficiently interesting to hold the attention of the large number of visitors many of whom are students from the college.

Under the direction of Prof. Robert J. McDowell, of Pittsburgh, the singing has been especially vigorous and the teachers have had the assistance of many college students in the gallery who throw considerable spirit into the songs whether or not they happen to know the words. One of the institute selections is "Men of Harlech" to the tune of which one of the local college

PROF. ROBT. J. McDOWELL songs is written. The air is rather unfamiliar to the teachers but every time the number is announced the students sing their own words with no little vigor and almost drown the music of the Adams Countians. Prof. McDowell, who is a Princeton graduate and now an instructor in the Pennsylvania College for Women, has also contributed a number of solos during the various sessions.

There were two addresses at Tuesday afternoon's session of the institute. Prof. Warren calling his address "Him that Has Gits" and Dr. Ellis talking on "Ideals," giving a practical talk on a rather impractical theme. This morning the devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. Joseph B. Baker, pastor of St. James Lutheran church. Prof. Warren's subject was "Methods for Arithmetic" and Dr. Ellis' "Roman Education" the latter proving of special interest to the college students who had been urged to attend. Dr. S. A. Martin, superintendent of the Cumberland Valley State Normal School also gave an address during the morning session.

Tuesday evening's attraction was ex-Governor Robert B. Glenn, of North Carolina, who lectured to an attentive audience for an hour and a half on "Our Country, its Possibilities and its Dangers." The lecture was one of the best ever given in Brua Chapel, the speaker picturing first the events immediately preceding the Civil War, passing rapidly to the Third Day at Gettysburg, of which he gave a most vivid description, recounting the trying days of the Reconstruction Period and then telling of the wonderful recovery of the South and its progress especially during the past twenty years. The dangers of the country—lack of respect for the law, petty greed leading to graft, immorality and the liquor traffic—were pictured with telling force and as he made an appeal for all to join in an effort to make a better, cleaner, stronger country he had the entire audience with him, all rising and singing with spirit "America." It was a fitting close to an inspiring talk and a large part of the audience went to the platform to shake hands with Governor Glenn and to tell him of their appreciation of the lecture.

Tuesday evening after the lecture between fifty and sixty former students of the normal school at Shippensburg held a reunion at Raymond's Restaurant. There were speeches by several, the normal school song and yell and a delightful evening was spent. Dr. Martin was present and responded to one of the toasts.

STATE GETS COUNTY LAND

Twenty Thousand Acres of Valuable Timberland in Adams and Cumberland Counties Purchased by the State for Forestry Purposes.

Title was taken on Tuesday by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to 20,000 acres of forest land in Adams and Cumberland counties for addition to its forest reserves, the purchase having been consummated by Commissioner of Forestry Robert S. Conklin after long negotiation with the South Mountain Mining and Iron Company. The tract, which is known as Pine Grove Furnace, is one of the old time manufacturing properties, the land having supplied the wood for the charcoal furnaces which made the iron in Pennsylvania, 75 years ago.

The purchase, which is the largest single acquisition made by the Department for several years, increases the area of the state forest reserves in the Cumberland Valley to 100,000 acres and makes the total extent of the reserve in the state 985,000 acres.

The land lies in Cumberland and Adams counties and adjoins the Caledonia furnace tract, formerly owned by Thaddeus Stevens, and the Mont Alto Furnace tract, which are now state property. It is covered with oak, chestnut, pine, poplar and hemlock and in addition to having a fine growth of timber contains iron ore, clay and sand banks and water and ice lease, from all of which the state will derive an income.

"BUCK FEVER" SEEMS TO CRIPPLE HUNTERS

Deer hunters have not reported any game shot the past few days. The deer are not so easy to find, is one given reason, and "buck fever" is probably another. Some probable instances of the latter are being told.

Monday afternoon, five fully equipped hunters alighted from a trolley car at Caledonia. The motorman called their attention to a stag and three does on the baseball field, not 100 yards away—five of them—and each fired four shots at the little herd. As far as known not one of the twenty bullets hit the deer, for the herd went bounding off into the forest, apparently unhurt.

A Waynesboro hunter—an excellent shot—went on his first deer hunt and sat and waited half a dozen hours before a monster buck raced toward him and passed him, not more than fifteen yards away. The hunter emptied his magazine of four bullets at it and never touched the animal.

Graeffenburg people say the deer there knew Sunday and that no shooting at it is permitted on that day. The biggest bucks of the neighborhood paraded on the turnpike that day.

THOSE TAKEN BY HAND OF DEATH

Albert F. Barker, Formerly Postmaster at Littlestown Dies at his Home in Hanover. Mrs. Creager Dies in Kent, Ohio.

ALBERT F. BARKER

Albert F. Barker formerly a prominent Littlestown resident, died at his home in Hanover at 7.55 o'clock Tuesday morning at the age of 70 years, 10 months and 1 day.

Mr. Barker was born January 20, 1841, near Littlestown. His parents, Joseph and Cassia (Diehl) Barker, were natives of Chester and York counties, and their son, Albert, acquired his education in the public schools of his native town. His studies were pursued with a view to the medical profession, but he abandoned this idea at the age of 17 years, upon the request of his father. When a young man he clerked in mercantile establishments and hotels in Pennsylvania, and during the Civil War volunteered as a nurse to attend the sick and wounded at the second battle of Bull Run. In this capacity he had charge of a ward in the general hospital, but was several times detailed for field hospital duty. He was in the service about four months.

On the 3d of January, 1864, he was married at Uniontown, Md., to Miss Ellen R. Carlisle. In 1865 he embarked in the mercantile business in Littlestown and followed it for 14 years. He was postmaster at Littlestown from 1864 to 1878.

In March, 1883, he purchased the "Diller House," now known as "Hotel Hanover," located in Hanover which he refitted and refurbished and converted into a first class hotel, and renamed it the "Barker House." April 1, 1903, the property was acquired by the late Peter H. Strubinger, of Abbotstown, and the hotel was conducted under several proprietors, until the death of Mr. Strubinger. The hotel is now owned by the latter's sister, Mrs. W. A. Nole.

He leaves his wife, one brother, Charles H. Barker, of Littlestown, and four sisters: Mrs. Charles T. Kump, Hanover; Mrs. William T. Howard, of Haddonfield, N. J.; Mrs. Eliza Miller and Mrs. Henrietta Yount, of Littlestown.

Funeral Thursday, November 23, services at the house at 1.30 p. m., conducted by Rev. A. M. Heilman, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Hanover.

MRS. ELI O. CREAGER

Mrs. Eli O. Creager died last evening at her home in Kent, Ohio, aged 73 years.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston H. Skelly and with her husband, moved from Gettysburg in 1863. She leaves her husband, several children and the following brothers and sisters, Charles E. Skelly, of Dayton, Ohio; Colonel George M. Skelly, of Springfield, Illinois; John A. Skelly, of Chicago; Daniel A. Skelly, Miss Annie M. Skelly and Miss Sarah J. Skelly, of Gettysburg.

Funeral at Kent.

REED WILL SEE NO REPORTERS

Mont Alto Murderer will See no Newspaper Men. Spends Time quietly and is Allowed to Mingle with the Other Prisoners.

"I would gladly tell him you want to see him, but it would do no good, as he has repeatedly told me he would not speak to newspapermen." So spoke Sheriff Gillan, of Franklin county, to a reporter when the latter inquired whether he could see William Reed, the Mont Alto man who is in jail under sentence of death for killing Sarah C. Mathna.

Sheriff Gillan stated that Reed spends his time like the other prisoners. He is allowed in the corridor with the other criminal prisoners and takes part in their games etc. He is not confined to a cell because of the unwillingness of the County Commissioners to pay for guards, which would be necessary were he held alone in a cell.

The Sheriff stated that he apprehends no danger from allowing Reed to mingle with the other men. He is quiet and unobtrusive and shows nothing in his demeanor or conduct that would cause a stranger to think he is a murderer. The condemned man reads a great deal.

Every Sunday services are held at the jail, some times twice a day. The persons in charge of these services often speak individually to Reed and they meet a sympathetic listener.

Sheriff Gillan stated that the often converses with Reed. Many topics are touched on, but there is one subject that Reed will not discuss. That is about his chances of securing from the Supreme Court another lease of life. He will not discuss this at all.

SMALL POX IN YORK HOSPITAL A fresh quarantine was placed upon the York Hospital Tuesday following the discovery of two more cases of smallpox in that institution. The disease was brought there about two weeks ago by a musician, whose case was diagnosed only after he had been at the hospital several days. A quarantine was immediately established, all patients and nurses were vaccinated and the man was removed to the city sanitary hospital.

The new victims are Miles Hyde, who has been in the surgical ward two months with a broken leg, and George Rauhauser, a 2 year old medical patient, who had been admitted a short time before the musician. Both have been taken to the sanitary hospital, and the fight to prevent an epidemic of the disease is being renewed in the city.

FELL ON JAR

Elmer Mummert, of McSherrytown, had the misfortune to cut a deep gash in his hand recently when he fell on a jar he was carrying. The jar was broken in the fall and a piece of glass cut a two inch gash in Mr. Mummert's hand. He was on his way to the grocery store carrying the jar. Some one had left a wheelbarrow standing on the sidewalk and in the dark, Mr. Mummert stumbled over it, falling with the above result. Dr. A. C. Rice rendered treatment.

MR. KUHN RETURNS

DR. WALTER WYMAN.

U. S. Surgeon General Who Died in Washington.

BARBUNCLE KILLS SURGEON GENERAL

Dr. Walter Wyman Dies in Washington.

Washington, Nov. 22 — Dr. Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the United States public health and marine hospital service, died at the Providence hospital after an illness of several months.

The direct cause of Dr. Wyman's death was a carbuncle which developed four weeks ago. He was taken to the hospital, and for a while appeared to improve rapidly. Until last Thursday his condition was not considered critical. On that day there was a decided turn for the worse, and he steadily grew weaker until Monday, when hope was abandoned.

Dr. Wyman was unmarried. He was born in St. Louis in 1848 and was graduated from the City university, of St. Louis, in 1866. He also had degrees from Amherst, St. Louis Medical college, Western University of Pennsylvania and the University of Maryland. He had been in the marine hospital since 1876, serving at St. Louis, Cincinnati, Baltimore, New York and Washington.

He was supervising surgeon general of the marine hospital service from 1891 to 1902. Since July 1, 1902, he had been surgeon general of the United States public health and marine hospital service.

The surgeon general is survived by his mother, Mrs. Edward Wyman, of St. Louis; three brothers, Henry P. and Frank, of St. Louis, and Arthur Wyman, of Chicago, and one sister, Mrs. Florence Richardson, of St. Louis.

MURDER FOLLOWS PROPOSAL

Suitor of Widow Has Brains Battered Out by Rival.

Seranton, Pa., Nov. 22.—John Lesonski, a Pole, accompanied by two friends, went to Old Forge to propose marriage to a widow named Josephine Bernoski, who took the proposal under advisement.

Afterward Lesonski and his friends went to a hotel to have some drinks and at midnight started home. Other men who were in the hotel overtook them and attacked Lesonski, who they said had no business after Old Forge women. They battered his brains out with a fence rail. Five are under arrest for the murder.

JOHN D.'S LOAN NETS MILLIONS

Witness Tells How He Lost Valuable Property.

HIS HOLDINGS SOLD OUT

Oil Lands and Railroad Now Estimated to Be Worth $700,000,000 Secured For $1,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 22 — John D. Rockefeller is really the genuine wizard of finance that most folks think he is, according to testimony before the Stanley steel committee.

The tale of how Mr. Rockefeller is alleged to have manipulated a call loan so as to acquire for less than $1,000,000 wonderful ore properties in Minnesota worth $700,000,000, was unfurled to the committee by Albert Merritt, of Duluth, Minn., who described himself as a "simple lumber-jack," and who claimed he had been mightily well trimmed in Wall street.

Rev. F. D. Gates, manager of the Rockefeller charities, was the man who put the big deal through.

Charles H. Martz, of St. Helier, Minn., the engineer who built the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad, of which Mr. Merritt was the first president, helped to enlighten the committee concerning Mr. Rockefeller's Minnesota operations. His principal claim seemed to be that he had sold to Mr. Rockefeller, at the latter's suggestion, thirty shares of stock in the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad at $30 a share, back in the 90's, and that this stock was now paying about $200 a share in annual dividends, but it was Mr. Merritt who put up the biggest bowl.

One loan was for $420,000. Others were for various sums. Gates, Merritt said, was a Baptist preacher, in whom he had confidence, who assured him that by placing a call loan he would not be pressed and that he would be taken care of.

The witness related how, two months after he had put up his collateral with Mr. Rockefeller, during the panic of 1893, Rockefeller called the loan, giving him twenty-four hours to raise $420,000 and that, being unable to raise the money, he and his brother lost their property. He admitted that Mr. Rockefeller offered him an opportunity to buy his property back within a year, but declared that the oil king told financiers "to keep hands off," and that he was unable to raise money anywhere.

Dispute as to the nature of the transaction arose when D. A. Reid, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, stated that the Merritts had made actual sales of their stock-holdings to Rockefeller in order to raise money, and that they never had taken advantage of the opportunity to repurchase within a year.

Another brother, Mr. Reid declared, had redeemed his stock and secured his pro-rata share at $208 per share when it was taken over at the time of the organization of the United States Steel corporation.

Charles H. Martz testified that he made the original survey for the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad, and that the road was built for the purpose of developing the Mesaba iron ore range.

In response to questions by Chairman Stanley, Mr. Martz said that the Merritt brothers, who built the railroad, borrowed $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller in 1892 to extend their road into Duluth.

"I think that the loan was offered to the Merritts by Mr. Rockefeller through a man named Wetmore," said Mr. Martz.

He further testified that through this loan the road was extended to Duluth and that the total cost of the road and docks at Duluth amounted to $1,700,000.

Soon afterwards, in 1893, Mr. Martz declared that the control of the road was taken over by Mr. Rockefeller. He remained as chief engineer, and when the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission brought suit against the road for a reduction of ore rates, he said that he was directed by counsel for the road, in the presence of Mr. Rockefeller's counsel, to make a report that the total cost of the railroad had been $5,000,000.

Mr. Martz then told the committee that he had owned forty-nine shares of stock in the railroad. Officers of the company borrowed nineteen shares which they said was to use as collateral in raising money in New York. This stock Mr. Martz declared he never saw again.

"After that," Martz said, "Mr. Rockefeller sent the general manager to inform me that it was against the policy of the company for employees to own stock in the road and asked me to sell for $30 a share. I did sell it and that stock is now paying a dividend of $200 a share."

"Did you ever try to find out what became of the other nineteen shares of your stock?" asked Representative Gardner.

"No," said Martz. "I was given to understand that if I didn't investigate my job would be secure."

BATHER STARTLES SHORE

Woman Took a Bath, She Said, as Part of a "Cure."

Atlantic City, Nov. 22.—Promenaders on the boardwalk in Chelsea yesterday were startled by a gray-haired woman suddenly appearing on the beach, clothed in a flimsy wrapper, but without shoes or stockings.

While the crowds on the "walk" stopped and gazed she boldly plunged into the surf, remaining in the water for fully fifteen minutes. The temperature of the air at the time was thirty-six degrees, but the bather didn't seem to mind it.

A policeman finally appeared and compelled the woman to leave the beach. She explained that she was taking a "cure."

BLAME FOR AUSTIN FLOOD

Coroner's Jury Finds Officials of Plant Guilty of Negligence.

Coudersport, Pa., Nov. 22.—George C. Bayless, president, and Frederick J. Hamlin, superintendent of the Bayless Pulp and Paper company, whose dam at Austin, Pa., burst on Sept. 30, bringing death and destruction, were found guilty of gross negligence by the coroner's jury.

T. C. Hatton, the engineer in charge of the construction of the dam, was the chief witness.

JAILED FOR HITCHING WIFE TO HARROW

Drove Her With Mules For Talking to Another Man.

Liberty, Mo., Nov. 22 — Lafayette Choate pleaded guilty to the charge of having tied his wife to a harrow with which he was plowing on his farm near Birmingham, Mo., last July, and was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

It was charged that because his wife had talked to another man Choate fastened a rope around her waist, tied it to the mules pulling the harrow, tied her arms behind her, drove the mules with her thus attached to them four times around the field, and when she stumbled over a clod, beat her with a club until she regained her feet; that after unharnessing the mules he tied her to the barn while he watered and fed them; that at another time he padlocked her hands together, and that after he left her she found a key and unlocked them. She left him, taking her two sons, and is suing for a divorce.

WILLIAM H. RUSSELL DIES

Was Chief Owner of the Boston National League Club.

New York, Nov. 22.—William Hepburn Russell, principal owner of the Boston National League Baseball club, and a well known lawyer in this city, died at his home here, after a brief illness.

Mr. Russell bought his interest in the Boston team about a year ago. Previous to that he had been identified with the sport only as a lover of the national game.

Mr. Russell had been ill for the past year. Angina pectoris was the immediate cause of his death.

The disposition of Mr. Russell's interest in the Boston baseball club will be made known when the will is made public.

Drinks on Sleep-Walking Landlord.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 22 — While sleeping on the second floor above his restaurant here, Harry Bonner arose and, walking through the window, fell to the sidewalk below. He then walked to a saloon and shook hands with a number of friends there before he woke up. When told what he had done he turned to his friends and said: "Well, boys, I am on me. Take what you want." They all took something.

Two-Year Sentence For "Lazy" Father

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 22.—Edward Westlake was sentenced to two years in jail by Judge Hayes as a "lazy" father. The law provides that a husband or father who fails to provide for his family shall be put to work for the county and $150 a day be paid to his family.

Killed by Bullet Meant For Another.

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 22.—A bullet fired by an Italian bricklayer during a quarrel with union men caused the death of George W. Couch, a stationery engineer. Couch had no part in the trouble and the bullet was not intended for him. The non-unionist escaped.

A FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE

By EMERSON TROWBRIDGE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

A mass meeting was called in the mining town of Tenderfoot to take measures for organizing a city government. The citizens had got tired of lawlessness and Judge Lynch. A lawyer named Jenkins, from the east, was the instigator of the movement.

A case came up before the court the very day after the organization. John Decker had an altercation with Silas Green about a mining claim and shot him dead. Decker was arrested and tried. Jenkins had given the judge a few elementary law points for his guidance.

"The fundamental principle," said the lawyer, "is that an accused person is to be considered innocent till he is proved guilty." The judge did not even grasp this idea, and when the trial commenced the lawyer discovered that he would have a hard time keeping his honor on the judicial track. No sooner had Decker been brought into the court than the court itself seemed inclined to follow the path to which he had been accustomed.

"You, John Decker, you're goin' to have a legal trial. You're goin' to be considered innocent of this shootin' till you've been proved guilty. Now, the first thing I want to know is whether you shot St. Green accidentally or a purpose."

"One moment, your honor," the lawyer interrupted. "The accused is not bound to answer any question that would incriminate him."

"You mean," said the judge, looking at the speaker, surprised, "that if I shoot any one that's interfering with me wrongfully I can't stand up like a man and say I done it?"

The lawyer was puzzled. He wished to explain the matter to the judge, but didn't know how to get so technical a point through his honor's thick skull. So he simply said:

"No, you can't. I, as public prosecutor, must prove that this prisoner is guilty under the law. If I choose to put him on the stand to speak in his own defense I may do so, but I am not compelled to do so."

"Was, you go right on and do the provin'. That's what you're here for."

It so happened that there were no witnesses of the actual shooting. Jenkins adhered to legal customs, explaining to the court that it was a case of circumstantial evidence and he must convince the jury by certain matters closely connected with the affair that Decker killed Green. If he could not do this Decker must go free. The judge told the attorney to "free away."

Jenkins produced the ball that did the murder, showed that it was of the same caliber as Decker's revolver, proved that but one shot was fired by Decker and there was but one chamber of his weapon empty immediately after the shooting. This being all the actual evidence he had to bring forward, he was obliged to be content with it.

A young man named Stiggs, who had copied letters in a law office, had been appointed attorney for the defense. He proved that the revolver on which Jenkins had framed his theory of the prisoner's guilt was not the one used in the fray. This took the prosecutor flat-a-back, and he didn't know what to say.

"What's the next thing to do?" asked the judge.

"Why, the next thing is for you to charge the jury. You must tell them that if they think that according to the evidence, mind you, Decker killed Green they must bring in a verdict of guilty; if not they are to acquit him."

"What does the jury think about it?" asked the judge. "According to the evidence, did John Decker kill St. Green or not?"

"According to the evidence," said the foreman, "John Decker didn't kill no body."

The trial had come to a standstill. Everybody looked at Jenkins, who had inaugurated the new order of judicial proceeding, and Jenkins looked embarrassed. The judge came to his relief.

"This were trial," he said, "has been on the theory that the prisoner is innocent till he has been proved guilty. Is there any other way o' doin' it?"

"In some countries," stammered the lawyer, "they reverse the process. The accused is regarded guilty till he has proved himself innocent."

"All right," replied his honor. "Now we'll try John Decker on that air theory. You, John Decker, how y' goin' to prove y' didn't kill St. Green?"

"I hain't a-goin' to prove no sth thing," replied the prisoner. "I done it, and if St. Green was livin' and tried to beat me some more I'd do it ag'in."

The eyes of the judge and the spectators were turned once more upon Jenkins in inquiry as the next step.

"The prisoner confesses his guilt and declines to put in a defense, which is equivalent to putting in a plea of guilty. This saves the town the expense of a trial, and in such cases the guilty one usually expects a lighter sentence."

"Is there any lighter way o' killin' the prisoner than hangin'?" asked the judge.

Jenkins smiled a sickly smile and said he didn't know of any unless shooting might not be so objectionable.

"Take him out and shoot him," were his honor's final words.

After that in Tenderfoot criminals were considered guilty till proved innocent.

Destroys Drink Habit

The man who drinks to excess needs treatment for his condition. The Orinine treatment can be used with absolute confidence. It destroys all desire for whiskey, beer and other intoxicants. It is a simple treatment. It is given in the home—no sanitarium expense—no loss of time from work.

If after a trial you fail to get any benefit from its use your money will be returned.

ORININE is prepared in two forms—a powder, for secret treatment, and in pill form, for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. Costs only $1.00 a box. We have an interesting booklet about ORININE that we are giving away free on request. Call at our store and take it over Huber's Drug Store, Balto. St. Gettysburg, Pa.

NEIGHBORHOOD ANNOUNCER.

Also Useful to Tell Passersby What Owner Wants to Sell or Buy.

H. O. Barnhill, a Montana ranchman, was the first farmer in his locality to use a blackboard, and he found it a great advantage on his ranch. The idea was such a good one that it was adopted by a number of ranchers in that country. The name of the farm and owner thereof are printed on the board in plain view, and notices to buy, sell, rent or hire may be written on it. The blackboard may also be used to announce neighborhood meetings, and by placing the board on the public road nearest the farm it will be of great convenience to neighbors and advantage to the owner of the place.

The board should be coated with the preparation used on school blackboards, as ordinary black paint does not take chalk well. The board costs about $2.25 complete.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Apiary Notes.

Never disturb the bees in cold weather.

Bees winter better if they are given part honey and part sugar to live on.

There are beekeepers all over the United States who, with a favorable locality and good management, are making an excellent living.

Beekeepers frequently find it necessary to feed a few colonies during the cold months in order to save them from starvation. As a rule, the beekeeper who extracts honey too late in the summer finds it necessary to supplement food during freezing weather.

NEGRO ATTACKS WHITE WOMAN

Coatesville Greatly Excited Over Latest Assault.

POSSES ARE IN PURSUIT

Mrs. James Campbell Struggled With Him on Lonely Road and Beat Him Off Until Help Arrived.

Coatesville, Pa., Nov. 22. — Mrs. James Campbell, thirty-eight years of age, of 30 Chester avenue, was attacked by a negro while walking along a lonely stretch of road about two miles from Coatesville. A posse of police and citizens is hunting for the negro.

Mrs. Campbell's assailant threw her to the ground and struck her twice, but she fought him off until the approach of a man and a woman from opposite directions drove him to flight in the woods Mrs. Campbell was little injured by her experience.

As soon as the alarm was spread scores of citizens turned out to aid the police in tracking the fugitive. Among the hunters—easily the most picturesque and most dangerous element that has ever participated in a man hunt in this part of the country—were a number of cowboys who are employees of a wild west circus which is now in winter quarters in Coatesville.

For the second time within a few months Coatesville public sentiment was stirred to the depths and threats were openly made that the assailant would not be allowed to reach jail alive if the police were behind at the capture.

Mrs. Campbell, the wife of an iron worker, who has lived in the borough for many years and is well known, was on her way from her home to that of her brother, Frank McCleese, in the country. She was walking up the Black Horse hill, about two miles from Coatesville, when she first saw the colored man.

The road at that point runs through a stretch of woods which extend on both sides for long distances, and the neighborhood is particularly isolated and lonely. The colored man suddenly stepped out of the woods, where he apparently was lying in wait for a victim, and threw his arms about Mrs. Campbell.

She screamed and struck him in the face. He thereupon threw her to the ground. She struggled upright and he struck her in the face. Again she arose and once more he knocked her down. Mrs. Campbell was screaming continuously, and Miss Johanna Irwin, who was driving along the road in a carriage, heard the cries, whipped up her horse and soon appeared close at hand.

At almost the same moment Levi Millinger, of Coatesville, appeared from the other direction, and the negro, who was stockily and powerfully built, fled into the woods. Miss Irwin took Mrs. Campbell into her carriage and drove rapidly to Coatesville where she placed Mrs. Campbell in care of a physician and notified Chief of Police Umsted.

Chief Umsted at once summoned every policeman he could reach and started on the trail of the assailant. News of the attack spread quickly and soon men singly and in groups were leaving town, many of them being armed, and taking up the trail of the negro.

Some person telephoned to the headquarters of the wild west show, and the cowboys, nothing loath for a little excitement, mounted their broncos, pulled their lariats and, with enormous "six-guns," or revolvers, on their hips, set off at a wild gallop in search of the man.

The negro is described as being very large and having a very black skin, with a scar on his face. This, it is hoped, will aid in quick identification. Miss Irwin, who rescued Mrs. Campbell, declares that about a year ago, while she was passing the same spot on the road, a negro fired a gun at her, but did not hit her, and she escaped.

Later another hold-up by a negro was reported to the police. Mrs. Fred Russell, of Oak street, was stopped while driving to Coatesville from Eldrid, directly opposite the place where Zach Walker was burned, by a negro who in some respects answers the description of the first negro. Mrs. Russell whipped up her horse and got away. The negro shot after her.

Child's Life Worth $100.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 22.—A jury in the local courts valued the life of a two-year-old child at $100 and awarded damages to this amount to Etore Gismond, father of the small girl who was killed by a car of the People's trolley line last August. The child was killed, it was testified, as a result of the car being run recklessly.

HETTY GREEN IS 76

Famous Woman Financier Too Busy to Celebrate Birthday.

New York, Nov. 22.—Tuesday was Mrs. Hetty Green's birthday. She is seventy-six years old and as active as a woman thirty-five years her junior. She was too busy making money to celebrate the anniversary and spent the day at her desk in the office of the Westminster company, at 111 Broadway.

She is seventy-six and proud of it. But she is as young and active as "Uncle Joe" Cannon. Those who are Mrs. Green's closest friends say that she is happier than at any time in her life. Her son, Colonel Edward H. R. Green—she calls him "Eddie"—is making his home with her now.

BEATTIE PREPARING FOR HIS DEATH

Wife Murderer is Receiving Spiritual Consolation.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—Henry C. Beattie, Jr., condemned to die Friday morning for wife murder, at last has given up hope and is reconciled to the thought of death.

He spent several hours with Rev. J. J. Fix, of the Presbyterian church, in Bible study, and was frequently at prayer.

Douglas Beattie, his brother, is an authority for the news of this abrupt change in Henry from an attitude of smiling indifference to one of serious thought and solemn preparation.

Appeals in person and by letter are being received by Governor Mann begging for commutation of the sentence of death, but the governor says justice must take its course unimpeded by any act of his.

John Mitchell Charges Mine Workers With Fraud.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 22.—Refusal of the resolutions committee to concur in a recommendation that Samuel Gompers and several other officers of the American Federation of Labor be compelled to withdraw from the National Civic Federation, precipitated the expected contest in the labor or organization convention.

Opponents of the resolution attacked Andrew Carnegie and other capitalist members of the Civic Federation.

John Mitchell, the vice president, sprang a sensation on the convention floor when he made the charge that the Columbus convention of the United Mine Workers, which passed a resolution directing delegates to request the resignation of Federation officials, who were officials of the National Civic Federation, was packed with delegates who did not belong there.

MASSACRE BY CHINESE REBELS

Many Children Among the Dead at Sian-Fu.

CITY OF TAI-YUEN IN RUINS

Foreigners and Manchus Among Those Slaughtered in the Province of Shen-Si.

Peking, China, Nov. 22.—Chinese officials confirm the report that a massacre of foreigners, as well as Manchus, has occurred at Sian-Fu. The legations believe that the report will prove to be true.

Tai-Yuen, the capital of the province of Shan-Si, is in ruins, but the missions are safe. Shan-Si is the province adjoining Shen-Si.

There were forty foreigners in Sian-Fu and many missionaries in the smaller Shen-Si towns. Up to the present only Chinese reports have been received regarding the massacre. There has been no telegraphic or postal communication with Sian-Fu for more than three weeks.

The Swedish missionaries, Messrs. Sandberg and Erickson, arrived in Peking from Tien Tsin. They said that a telegram had been received from Sian-Fu before their departure from Southern Shen-Si announcing the murder of Mrs. Beckman, a school teacher, and five children. Many Chinese girls in Miss Beckingsdale's school, who were mistaken for Manchus because of their big feet, were also reported to have been murdered. A German, Phillip Manners, was among others killed.

Messrs. Sandberg and Erickson say that a magistrate in their town offered them $400 each to leave the province. Shen-Si probably is the most anti-foreign province in China proper, not having received a lesson at the hands of the foreign troops in 1900.

Mrs. Beckman probably was the wife of R. Beckman, of the Scandinavian China Alliance Mission at Sian-Fu. Miss J. Beckingsdale belonged to the English Baptist mission. Phillip Manners was a German connected with the Chinese hospital service.

At Sian-Fu, which is a city of nearly a million inhabitants, the English Baptists have two stations, with six men and seven women missionaries. Also there is in the city the Society of the Brethren, an English organization, with two men and three women missionaries.

The Young Men's Christian association is the only American institution which has workers in the local field of Sian-Fu.

Highwaymen in Ho-Nan attacked and robbed a party of fugitive missionaries, injuring one of them. No where else apparently have foreigners been attacked, the rebels elsewhere giving them protection, but it is feared that lawlessness must increase. The Peking government is powerless beyond Ho-Nan and Chi-Li.

The legations have taken no action as yet, but they have the reported killing of foreigners under consideration. Without a strong invading force, however, nothing can be accomplished beyond the reach of the Yang-Tse gunboats.

Most of the legations advised their people in the interior to escape three weeks ago. Many disobeyed, believing they were in no danger. Some of the women and children were sent to the coast.

Advices from Chun-King say that the consuls long ago advised the departure of foreigners, and that more than a hundred left Chun-King. Many remained, but not a single foreigner up to the time the advices were dispatched had been killed in the province of Sze-Chuen.

The disagreement between the national assembly and Premier Yuan Shi Kai is becoming stronger. The premier has not yet visited the assembly, and his loyalty and belief in the ultimate success of the monarchy is now considered undoubted. He seems to believe that he is responsible to the throne alone.

PRESIDENT MAY SEE GAME

Will Accompany Secretaries of Army and Navy if Cold is Better.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Meyer will go to Philadelphia Saturday to watch the Army and Navy battle for supremacy on the gridiron. Each, of course, will "root" for the eleven of his own service.

If President Taft's cold is improved to such an extent as to allow him to make the trip he probably will attend the game. As commander-in-chief of both the army and the navy, he would have to present a strictly neutral attitude. However, as he was himself formerly secretary of war, he might secretly lean a bit toward the cadets.

Hal Chase Retires From Management.

New York, Nov. 22.—Hal Chase resigned as manager of the New York American League Baseball club at a conference with Frank Farrell, owner of the club. Chase, however, will not leave the club. He will play first base next season and he will get the same salary as last season.

THE FARM LAWYER.

A Sunday contract may be validated by a subsequent promise to carry it out or by acts of performance.

The term "date" as used in a statute requiring an instrument to be dated, means the day, month and year, and giving the year alone is not sufficient.

In order that the taking of a note shall operate as a payment of a prior indebtedness there must be an express agreement to that effect.

One owning land bordering on a stream navigable or not navigable owns the bed of the stream to the center of its thread and may use it as he pleases, provided he does not interfere with the easement of the public to use the surface.

A seller must give the buyer an opportunity to inspect the goods, and the buyer will not be held to have accepted them and waived defects by merely unloading or by doing anything else necessary to inspection.

WORMS IN HOGS.

Preventive and Remedial Treatment For Internal Parasites.

Worms are found in pastures and around buildings in greater or less quantities in the embryonic stage, and these are likely to be eaten by the pigs and particularly so when the pigs are fed upon the ground. This is one reason why pigs should be fed upon a cement feeding floor that can be flushed off and kept clean or else upon nice green sod, says D. A. Gaumnitz of Minnesota Agricultural college.

Slow gains, lack of thrift, tendency toward coughing, tendency to be drawn up in the body, lack of appetite, harsh appearance of the hair are all good indications of worms.

As a preliminary to nearly all treatments, pigs are usually kept off feed from the night before until about 10 o'clock the following day, when they are quite hungry. Then the feed, in which is blended the remedy adopted to remove the worms, is fed. A thin slop of shorts and water or milk is the most desirable medium in which to give the medicine. No definite experiments have been carried out to test the relative efficiency of the different remedies, but the following are some commonly used:

Turpentine treatment.—For every thirty pounds of pig give one teaspoonful of turpentine in the slop. Repeat this for three or four successive days. Follow this with a dose of epsom salts, about one teaspoonful for every fifty pounds of pig. Salts can be fed in the same manner as the turpentine. Too extensive feeding of turpentine or too heavy doses may result in inflammation of the intestines. Be careful therefore. Turpentine ordinarily, however, is very effective.

Santonin Treatment.—Santonin is a white powder and is also easily given with the feed. One ounce is usually sufficient for about 100 fifty pound pigs. This powder should be dissolved in warm water, mixed with the slop in the same way as the turpentine and followed by a physic in the same way.

Concentrated Lye.—Another very common remedy is one teaspoonful of lye dissolved in water. This is enough for three pigs weighing fifty pounds each. Pains should be taken to dissolve the lye very carefully and to mix it very uniformly with the feed. This should be fed for a couple of days in succession, and if fed every other week for a couple of weeks will give results.

In all cases where pigs are being treated for worms it is best to confine them to a small lot well littered with straw, so that all excrement of the pigs, which may contain eggs of the worms, will fall upon the straw, which may then be raked up and burned.

Preventive Treatment.—This consists of providing a trough made up in several compartments and placing in them the following ingredients, forming a composite tonic: Bone meal, two bushels; charcoal, three bushels; wood ashes, one bushel; salt, eight pounds; air slaked lime, two quarts; copperas, one and a half pounds dissolved in warm water and mixed in with the other ingredients. This should be kept out of the weather, but the pigs should be given free access to it.

A POTATO EXPERIMENT.

An experiment in growing potatoes was made by a gardener not far from where the writer lives may interest some of our readers. Last spring at planting time he dug a trench seven or eight inches deep, the width of an ordinary shovel and twenty-five feet in length. When the trench was dug about four inches of loose earth were scattered over the bottom. On top of this the pieces of seed were planted six inches apart, and on top of the seed potatoes the mellow earth was shoveled. The growing potatoes were given no hilling during the season. At harvest time this twenty-five foot row yielded three and a half bushels of tubers. An acre at the same rate would yield 837 bushels. So good were the results that this gardener will try a larger tract of ground in the same way next spring.

STORING CELERY.

Sweet and crisp celery may be kept on tap for several months by removing the plants from the ground with a good supply of earth on the roots and setting them in a box in the cellar containing four or five inches of mellow earth. Care should be taken to moisten the roots after the plants are set, and this may be done by pressing the tops to one side at the edge, tilting the box, inserting a piece of tin or paper and pouring the water between this and the side of the box so it will reach the soil at the bottom. If the tops are wet in the watering process they are likely to decay prematurely.

WOLCAST HAS BIG JOB ON HAND

In Freddie Welch Champion Will Meet Tough Nut.

ENGLISHMAN IS VERY SKILLFUL

In Order to Win Cadillac Boy Will Have to Knock Him Out or Have Him in Distress at End of Twenty Round Bout to Be Held in Frisco.

Ad Wolgast, the champion lightweight, has one of the most troublesome problems he has yet faced before him for Thanksgiving day, when he is to meet Freddie Welch, the former English lightweight champion. In a twenty round bout in San Francisco. While not a hard hitter, Welch is regarded as one of the best two handed boxers in the world. He is lightning fast with hands and feet, wonderfully skillful, a perfect judge of distance and very cool in action. Freddie is also an artist at infighting as well as at long range.

Wolgast has done all that has been asked of him so far, and his friends believe he will be successful against the wonderful Britisher, but even Ad's most ardent admirers are doubtful that he will be able to stop Welch inside the limit of twenty rounds. They figure that he will not be able to corner the foreigner to land his effective blows. Others point to the three fights which Welch had with Packy McFarland. Each one went the limit, and Welch was given a draw each time, although in the last bout Packy was given the credit with having a shade by the English sportswriters.

Wolgast in order to gain a decision will have to either knock him out or have him in distress at the windup. If Freddie can finish the twenty rounds fresh he will get the decision, for he is so much faster than Wolgast and such a clever fellow that he figures to outpoint him. But Wolgast had a clever one to meet in Owen Moran, and he solved his style, beat down his guards and stopped him.

Wolgast has a way of covering up and wading in to close range and from there launching volleys of terrific drives to body and head. None of his opponents so far have been able to keep him at a respectful distance, and none has been able to get away from these bombardments; consequently they have all gone down before the "wild cat" from Michigan.

Now, while Freddie Welch is a taller fellow than Owen Moran and faster, it is doubtful if he can stand off the rushes of Wolgast. It is a foregone conclusion that if the champion manages to get into his favorite fighting position, head close up against his opponent, the Britisher will not be able to slug with him nor will he be able to survive the terrific hammering that Wolgast will cut loose with.

Men who have boxed with the Cadillac boy in workouts and in real fights say that he hits harder at close quarters than any lightweight in the history of the ring. Abe Attell, foxy and experienced as he is, said recently that Wolgast would beat every light weight who faced him in a twenty round fight. He's too powerful and his too hard. Attell says none of the boys can resist his rushes or keep him at a distance.

He follows his man around the ring, taking blows aimed at him on his gloves until he gets the fellow just where he wants him. Ad then makes a little dash and lets fly as he unwinds at close quarters. He sends all the power of his makeup into every punch, and it does not take many of these to beat an opponent into submission.

All things considered, Welch should give a good account of himself, but Ad figures to win inside the limit.

Howard Will Coach Columbia.

Tom Howard, the well known hockey player, who for five years coached the Yale team, will this winter try to whip the Columbia hockey team into winning form.

Keep Horses Comfortable.

Two things that deserve constant attention at this time are the bits and the blankets. Never allow a frosty bit to come in contact with a horse's mouth and never leave the team without being well and comfortably blanketed.

Acorns For Pigs.

When acorns are fed pigs their flesh is apt to become very soft and oily, but this difficulty may be overcome by feeding corn for three weeks before slaughtering.

FOR SPREADING LIME.

Contrivance That Can Be Made at Home Easily and Cheaply.

The accompanying cut shows a home-made machine for distributing lime, ashes, etc. The six cornered box is hung on a 4 by 4 scantling hewn down so it will run through wheels about four inches as bearings for the frame to draw by. A tongue is not needed, although one could be used. Any old wagon or mowing machine wheels will do. Make the ends to fit axle, both ends alike, doubled crosswise of the grain of the wood with one inch boards twelve inches wide. Fasten one end of the box and axle to a wheel and let the other wheel turn on the axle. A support may be put in the center the same as the end, but it is not necessary unless the box is made longer than ten feet, as it is very strong and the axle breaks the fall of the contents and prevents packing. The feed is regulated by drawing two three-inch strips on each side with three cross strips, with one bolt in the center and a heavy screw through the ends into the long strips. Leave the center cross strip long enough for the handle to close. While filling tack the strips to hold exact while boring one and one-fourth inch holes ten inches apart opposite the side holes intermediate. Use three strap hinges and three hasps with hooks on one side for door. Any amount can be put on. By using a button to stop lever one can adjust amount wanted. Turn the button to stop the lever the same every time. The bill for material would be one piece 4 by 4 inches twelve feet long, seven pieces 1 by 12 inches ten feet long, three pieces 2 by 4 inches ten feet long, one piece 1 by 4 inches ten feet long, fifteen pieces 1 by 3 inches ten feet long, eighteen 1/2 by 3 inch bolts, forty-two No. 8 1/2 inch screws, three six inch strap hinges and seven-eighths inch screws, three six inch book hasps, six staples, two old wheels. It will do the work. Any handy person can make one in two days. The cost of material ought not to exceed $5 anywhere, new and dressed—Iowa Homestead.

THE HORSEMAN.

Style, when in any posture, is a very desirable attribute in the carriage horse.

Oilmeal or ground flaxseed is a good preventive and remedy for constipation.

When horses have free access to salt at all times they are not so apt to suffer from worms.

Many a farm horse suffers from ill fitting collars and harness. See that the collar and harness fit.

Feeding a horse corn one day, oats the next and something else the next is a good way to quickly induce indigestion.

A well bred draft horse is always in demand, and the farmer who breeds them constantly is one who makes the most profit in horses.

Take an occasional look into the horse's mouth. His teeth decay, ache, and sometimes need to be pulled the same as do humans'.

Some time ago the writer suggested through a paragraph in these notes to a young man in Illinois who was anxious to get a start in an agricultural way the wisdom of looking into the opportunities available in connection with some of the government's western irrigation enterprises. These tracts cost the homestead value of the land—about $150 per acre plus the actual cost of the water right, which varies in different enterprises from $35 to $50 per acre. The great advantages in buying such government tracts are, first, that when a fellow buys a water right he gets so much water, not blue sky or hot air, and, secondly, he is given ten years in which to make payment, and that without interest on deferred payments. Tracts in the Huntley project in Idaho have this season cleared their owners $50 per acre in the growing of sugar beets, enough to cover the entire purchase price of the land. Many a young fellow who has saved up a nest egg and wants to get away from the bad air and cramped conditions of shop or factory and get a home on the land would do well to look into some of these government projects.

Psychology of Sleep.

The psychology of sleep is a vast and little explored subject. Sleep deepens to trance, trance to death. Therefore in life, speaking somewhat paradoxically, sleep is most akin to death. Whether the spirit is parted from the body and goes long journeys through space, or whether it is in a state of one long dream, parts of which we are alone conscious of, is a matter for the Society of Psychical Research. Yet many of us have dreamed things, seen things or even spoken and heard things in sleep which we have seen, heard or spoken later on in reality. We can more or less follow the stages up to the final sleep of all, but here we must pause, and, with Hamlet, in vain attempt to learn what lies beyond the veil: "And in that sleep of death, what dreams may come!"—London Globe.

WILL SPEND $450,000 AT YORK PUBLIC SALE

The York Chamber of Commerce has been notified by President McCrea, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, that $450,000 would be expended in making improvements in that city. A subway will be built at the Northern Central station and a new freight warehouse.

Mowing the lawn in the middle of October may improve the looks of it for a brief time, but unless there is a good much of well rotted manure applied to enrich the soil and protect the roots of the grass from winter thawing and freezing the practice is not advisable. Grass needs a rest just like folks, and it's a pretty good plan to do no cutting after Sept. 20.

There is no tool that gives as good results in freshly cleared land and is as economical in operation from the standpoint of both horsepower and patience as the disk harrow. This holds both in getting the land in shape for a crop and tending it while growing. The advantage of the disk for the purposes mentioned is appreciated by any one who has operated one of the old break pin cultivators on a rocky field.

If the housewife has a small sized fish to bake she will find an easy as well as a very satisfactory way to do it to cut the fish along the backbone so as to lay it open and then cover it nicely with the stuffing which one prefers, a breadcrumb dressing seasoned with sage and onion being excellent. This method of baking not only keeps the fish moist and tender, but gives a brown crust to the covering which is very appetizing.

DONT WAIT SO LONG

"One of the most surprising things in the world to druggists is that so many people endure unnecessary suffering and trouble.

Every day they hear people say, 'I have been feeling so weak and miserable for the last few months that I finally decided to come and ask you what to do for it.'

For instance, Miss Zulah Teagarden, of Connellsville, Pa., says in a letter. 'For years I had been in bad health owing to run down system and general weakness. I had no appetite, was tired out, and had no strength.

'Hearing so much about Vinol I decided to try it, and I find it the greatest of all remedies. It has built up my strength, restored my appetite, and made me as well as ever. I might just as well have had this benefit years ago if I had taken Vinol then.'

Now if you are weak and in poor health, don't wait another day, but let Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, make you strong. We guarantee it—you get your money back if not satisfied. People's Drug store, Gettysburg, Pa.
